GOD IS LOVE AND NOTHING ELSE

PRAISE THE LORD.

FRANKFORT, O., 3 1887.

DEAR INTERIOR:—There are more big square, solid, old-fashioned mansions—built by grandfathers of a former generation—in Frankfort, than any place I know in Kentucky. Fashion drifts away from them and unsightly surroundings invade the once sacred precincts of the old aristocratic quarter; but the substantial family residence holds its own, in a sort of grim com-servative protest, against everything that seems disposed to elbow it out of the way. This is quite a characteristic feature of the Capital. Where the sooty, smoky railway now belches its abominations into the air, and streaks the road bed with extinct cinders, ashes and fragments of oil saturated "waste," was, in former days, the "swell" street of the city. But, in those days, the cars ran over dirt-roads and the cow catcher of the locomotive was a stout "hickory split" beam that literally swept impediments from the track; and the terminus of the railway was on top of the hill, where steam laid hold of the freight and passengers dragged up by horses, and "tore away" to Lexington at the maximum rate of 12 miles an hour. Then came the tunnel and the iron horse scoured steam and smoke over the exclusive domain of the fashions-ble quarter, till they fled, quavering. It may not be generally known that this 25 mile stretch of railway between Lexington and Frankfort, constructed in 1830, was the third railroad in America, and the fifth in the world. I saw it first in 1836 from the hillside below Judge Robertson's house, in Lexington, where my father stopped a day or two with his family, en route to Dayton, Ohio. Can I ever forget the thrill of right end ecstasy with which I gazed upon the little, wheezing locomotive, with its scrub-broom attachment, puffing pretentiously in front of its exceedingly primitive train of two cars? "Snake heads" were very common occurrences on this road, by which was meant the appearance, through the floor of the car, of the end of the flat rail, which had been detached from its wooden support and curling up punctured the bottom of the vehicle; and at times skittered the unhappy passenger happening to be sitting over the spot where it burst through. Yet these quavering pioneers of the thundering engines that now make the earth tremble with their weight and power, were greater triumphs of science than their unambitious successors of nowadays. As Fulton's awkward steamboat will, forever, bear away the palm from the grandest Quaker of the present.

Frankfort excels in shade. No parson-city or village can manufacture ancient patriarchs of forest growth to order, as they may broad streets and avenues of costly houses. Money is hoarded here. One can walk all over the city, miles of promenade, under the delightful shade of handsome trees, some of them very old; or drive under umbrageous vias of overlapping tape-nature's umbrella; the true paradise.
My kind entertainer, Judge Craddock, took me in his buggy, a day or two ago, "in and about" the city; showing me the historical spots and pointing out the houses where the "giants" of a former generation lived.
And "there were giants in those days." The Judge knew them all intimately, and delights to talk of his old compeers of the forum and the stump. He lives largely in the past; as we have all noticed it to be the habit of the elderly to do; and all that is required is to ask a question pertaining to the old times and persons. Then he is off; travelling, most pleasantly, in reminiscence and anecdote, the "auld lang syne" of his early manhood, when Clay and Crittenden, Harlan and Morehead, Letcher and Hardin, with a host of others, made up Kentucky history of that period. It is a thousand pities that there is no enthusiastic "historical society" to catch from the lips of these veterans, before they pass away, the recollections of an earlier day, so replete with varied interest and instruction. I have heard enough, of fascinating narrative, from the Judge, about the men of these times, to make a small volume; and he knows enough more to fill a folio.

This dear family have made our stay so delightful, that we shall leave them, not only with regret, but with the feeling of having known them intimately all our lives. So gracious is true courtesy. The girls are equally enthusiastic over their entertainers across the river.

The public buildings of Frankfort—always excepting the frowsy old capitol—a standing reproach and shame to this grand Commonwealth, are beginning to take rank with the "berry bush" and will, I predict, soon look so much better than the place where legislative wisdom assembles, that,

for very decency's sake, they will vote a more respectable place of council and debate. Who can tell what influence this disgraceful building has had on the general demoralization of our law-makers; so frankly set forth by our voracious purveyors of the "fourth estate," known by the general public as "newspapers?" Is it possible to make a decent, clear-cut statue in a place like this? Can grapes grow on thorns, or figs come from thistles? I think our late legislators have been, in large part, victims of their surroundings. And when they awake to this fact, I hope they will vote a capital worthy of our glorious State, rather than go on rambling to worse, till there shall be "no more poor as to do them reverence." "If preservation, the first law of nature," ought to come to the rescue. But I must call a halt, or I shall drift into politics before I know it. Only "folks that live in poor houses have poor ways." Everybody knows that.

The new postoffice is exquisite in design and charming in site. Right on the bluff bank of the river, with the grand public school building just across, it is an honor to its architect and an ornament to the old city. I think, for a building erected by Uncle Sam's pocket book, it is also a model of economical structure. As a rule, the old gentleman has good reason to complain of the extravagance of his nephews, when they undertake to put up anything at his expense. But this noble edifice only cost $125,000. I think, in New York or Chicago, it would have easily sunk double that sum. It is built of a lovely stone. The public school is brick, but of grand architectural proportions, and in beautiful grounds. The colored people also have a public school, well equipped; and a Normal School of superb proportions overlooking the city from one of Frankfort's peculiarly picturesque hills.

The next thing after a new capital will be a graceful iron bridge across the Kentucky and then the capital will be "set up."
"Equalled by few and excelled by none."
There are other things I must notice in a subsequent letter, which I have not time to write about this time, but which must not be entirely overlooked. Adieu!
Ever in Jesus, GEO. O. BARNES.

Hon. Charles W. Beck, the Minister to Peru, who is expected at his home in Midway, on a visit, next week, will reach that place by a roundabout journey as a man ever took. Lima, as all know, is near the western coast of South America, and its nearest port is Callao. Mr. Beck boards an English ship at Callao, sails south and around Cape Horn. Thence he bears to the northwest until he reaches England.
From England he comes to New York and thence to Kentucky. He travels in the neighborhood of 15,000 miles. O course there is a much shorter way, one probably not over one third as long—namely, by sailing direct from Callao to San Francisco, and coming thence by rail to Louisville. But the route by the way of England is about as cheap and as convenient as that to San Francisco and most travelers take it. The English have a monopoly of the Peruvian trade, and hence ships pass between the two countries much more frequently than between Peru and the United States.

How PROHIBITION IS WORKED IN CHRIS-TIAN.—It is not likely that the parties indicted last month for violating the prohibition law will be put under bond at all.
The bond was put at only $50 in each case, and the sheriff has until next March to serve the warrants, which have not yet been issued. In the meantime the indicted parties can go on as usual, violating the law until the next court approaches and then skip out and avoid arrest, or forfeit the bond of $50. The financially responsible ones will doubtless remain and take their chances on effecting an easy compromise, while the others will not be punished at all unless some more vigorous efforts are taken to bring them to justice than have yet been resorted to.—[Hopkinsville South Kentuckian.]

With a radical reduction of taxation upon the necessities of life, and a forfeiture of all the unearned land grants held by subsidized railroads, with honest and rational appropriations for our rivers and harbors, with a confining of pension expenses within the bounds of reason, with an honest committee upon public buildings and grounds and an old-fashioned democracy in office, such a wave of prosperity would sweep over this country that capital would seek investments on every hand, and holders of national securities would gladly surrender them in order that their investments might yield a greater rate of interest. Indeed, the national debt would be practically extinguished before the close of the century.—[Louisville Times.]

This is the way they do it in Adair:
Z. T. Taylor was elected poor-house keeper last week until the next Court of Claims.
The contract made with the court requires the keeper of the poor-house to furnish food, clothing, comfortable lodging, make fires to keep them warm, go after the papers wherever they may happen to be living in the county when declared paupers, go after the doctor and wait on them when sick for $1.25 per week.—[Spectator.]

CRAB ORCHARD, LINCOLN COUNTY.

—Miss Ida Edmiston edited the temper-paper at the lodge Tuesday night.

—The Springs hack has stopped running to the depot at night and night mail is not delivered here now.

—The many friends of Mr. L. M. Lawley and family regret very much to have them leave our town, but hope that they will be pleased in their new home.

—The company of feather renovators, who are here getting a great deal of work to do and all who have had their beds renovated are much pleased with them.

—A party from here, chaperoned by Mrs.
Laura Moore, went chestnut hunting last Saturday. They returned with plenty of chestnuts and reported having had bushel of fun.

—Mr. F. W. Dillon has moved to Mr.
J. F. Hildman's house on Somerset street, and Mr. W. P. Tatem has moved back to his home on Stanford street, which was vacated by Mr. Dillon.

—Mrs. Martha A. Singleton's sale took place last Saturday. Horses were sold for $25 to $75; hogs $1 to $6; cows $16 to $25; sheep $3 to $5. No household goods were disposed of. Mr. P. J. Chandler was crier of the sale.

—The musical last Wednesday night was quite an enjoyable entertainment and the songs by the various young ladies were all deserving of praise, but the one song by little Birdie James was especially good and her cute and cunning ways added to its interest. "The Lips that Touch Liquor Shall Never Touch Mine," was well recited by Miss Irene Dillon. The proceeds of the entertainment will be appropriated to buying regalia for the lodge.

—A Miss Mary Dyehouse, an inmate of the poor house, who was subject to epileptic fits, while suffering from one fell in the fire and was badly burned before discovered that she died from the effects of the burn. One whole side of her body was burned and she was a most pitiable object to see. She lived from Saturday to Monday, but being under the influence of opiate all the while, was not conscious of her suffering. She was buried in the pauper burying ground Tuesday.

—Mrs. F. McKinney and Mr. and Mrs.
W. H. Higgins, of Stanford, have been visiting Mrs. W. M. Higgins, in the country.
Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Halldeman, of Louisville, were the guests of her parents, Mr.
and Mrs. John Buchanan. Mrs. Joe Coffey, of Danville, spent several days with her sister, Mrs. Will Dillon. Mrs. W. F.
Kennedy, Mrs. J. T. Higgins and Mr. W.
O. Hamsford have returned from a visit to Mrs. Grove Kennedy, in Garrard. Mr. and Mrs. James Shivel, of Jellico, Tenn., were the guests of his sister, Mrs. J. T.
Chadwick. Miss Bettie Higgins has returned to Greenwood, accompanied by Mr.
J. S. Edmiston, who will probably remain there. Mrs. Frank Clifford, of Livingston, and Mr. and Mrs. John Magee, of Paint Lick, paid a visit this week to their father, Mr. R. B. Ward. Mrs. Kate Egbert has returned from a pleasant visit to Mrs. W.
M. Higgins, in the country. Mr. Will Brooks has returned home after a protracted absence in the South. Mr. and Mrs.
Goode, from near Stanford, have been the guests of her brother, Mr. Bowen Gover, at Mrs. Joe Rheinhart.

—Mr. James Miller and Miss Annie Holmes, who were married by Rev. A. S.
Moffett at his home last Monday returned here and that night a very quiet but elegant supper was given them by the bride's mother. We had the pleasure of being one among the few relatives and friends who were present. The arrangement of the table, which was under the management of Mrs. Joe Rheinhart, was a model of beauty and taste. The evening was a most enjoyable one and shortly after the departure of the guests sweet strains of music burst upon the air and it was our privilege to listen to one of the sweetest serenades we ever heard. The young gentlemen were invited in the house and a nice little feast spread for them. After partaking of this, music was next in order.
And the songs so well sung by Messrs. Edgar Jones and Elmer Dill were highly appreciated by all, especially C. W. Will. S.
Hays' sweet ballad, "Old Fashioned Roses
Are Sweetest," which was sung by Mr.
Jones. Mr. Miller and his bride left last Thursday for Louisville where they will spend a few days and then go to Lewisburg their future home. Mrs. Miller's departure is a theme of universal regret for she is loved by a wide circle of friends. Her wedding trousseau was elegant and stylish and during the marriage ceremony she was very becomingly attired in a handsome blue broadcloth suit with a lovely silk plush hat to match. Mr. Bowen Gover, Misses Maggie Jones, Irene Dillon and Maggie Holmes accompanied them to Stanford. The bride is lovely and attractive both in person and disposition and Mr.
Miller is justly proud of the treasure he has won. He is handsome, strictly moral and has excellent business qualifications.
They have known each other long and well, having been sweethearts ever since they began life's journey together brave and hopeful, and that it may be long and very prosperous and they be always as happy as on the day that saw their destinies united, is the earnest wish of your Crab Orchard correspondent and a host of other true friends.

GARRARD COUNTY DEPARTMENT.

Lancaster.

—A writer signing himself S. C. H., has a rather pointed article in the News of yesterday.

—The well, which we were going to bore in the centre of the square has been forgotten.

—Geo. D. Bardett & Co., have just received a stunning lot of fancy chisware Call and see their novelties.

—The News reports three weddings to take place soon. I'd like to know where the alleged editor of that paper got his information.

—I. B. Johnston bought the new residence just built by Dick Bradley for $2,400.
R. R. Noel has rented the farm of Hon. M. H. Owsley and removed to the same.

—The scream of the Louisville Southern engines will never be heard in Lancaster. We would rather pay 20 cents a bushel for coal than get it for 10 cents. Well it's important!

—The big colt show comes off Saturday at Gill's track. Three premiums will be given for the best colts, the get of Ultimus.
Mr. Warner, the owner of Ultimus, will be present.

—The B. & O. Express office at this place is now a money order office. These orders are just as safe as post office money orders and are cheaper. This will be a great convenience to our people.

—The pastor of the Christian church will preach next Sunday morning the third sermon in his October series. Subject, "Duties of Church Members." Every member of the church is urged to be present.

—The temperance people opened the war upon J. W. Miller by serving on him 17 warrants for violating the local option law. The cases are set for Saturday. The result will be watched with the keenest interest.

—James E. Harris obtained license yesterday to marry Miss Sallie, daughter of Ephraim James of the Prescherville neighborhood. The bride is but 18 and the groom 19, but the latter looked about 7 feet tall and as slim as a match.

—Charles Arnold, the 14 year old son of Joe H. Arnold, died suddenly on Sunday afternoon of spinal meningitis. It was a severe blow to his parents, and his mother is prostrated with grief. Sympathy helps but little here. Time alone heals such wounds as these.

—Mrs. M. E. Holmes has rented the residence of J. W. West and will keep boarders as usual. Mr. West and family and the family of R. H. Eaton have already engaged board with her. Mr. James Farris has taken possession of the property purchased from R. R. Noel.

—The editor of the Central Kentucky News got mad at me for saying nothing about his children. He kicked without cause.
Everybody knows where his children, who are all bright, get their sense. Daws has long been known here as the smart boy's pa. So yesterday we had with us the bad boy's pa and the smart boy's pa also; glory enough for one day.

—Robert Elkin left yesterday for a visit to Atlanta. He will try to shake hands with Cleveland while there. Misses Leila and Alice Marksbury left yesterday for Tallahassee, Florida, where they will spend the winter with relatives. Captain W. J.
Kinnsaid has gone to Kansas City on a prospecting tour. W. H. Wherritt is a delegate to the Presbyterian Synod at Lebanon.

Teachers' Meeting at Waynesburg.

Programme for the Lincoln County Teachers' Association to meet in Waynesburg Friday, October 28th and Saturday, October 29th:

Friday afternoon—Devotional exercise;
music; opening address, W. F. Nide; response, Miss S. Thurmond; music; educational value of singing and music, Miss Lillie Thixton, followed by G. Singleton and others. Friday night—The advantage of education, Mrs. S. F. H. Tarzan, followed by J. T. Curtis and others; elocution, Mrs. F. H. Hayes; Miss Anna Hendrix, paper; elocution, Miss Irene Dillon; music.

Saturday morning—The probabilities of the public schools of Kentucky, W. F. Mc-Clary, followed by E. S. Gooch and others; the philosophy of teaching, Miss A. I.
Stuart; the above question to be discussed by the teachers in general; music. All friends of education are cordially invited to attend.

Your Sanford correspondent says it was whispered around that Hiram Hiatt was seen here one day last week. Yes, it is true, he was seen here every day last week —he didn't seem to be hiding from any one either; he was going around everywhere buying horses.—[Paint Lick Cr. Lancaster News. And with there was a warrant sent to that county for his arrest. It seems that it is in order for somebody to explain or acknowledge that processes are served only when it is agreeable to do so.

—In Rowan county, Monday, David Campbell dangerously wounded Bud Sea with a hatchet, and at another point in the same county it is reported that an unknown man was struck with a pick by another unknown and will probably die.

—Mrs. Fromer has been convicted at Greeneburg, Indiana, of murder in the first degree and sentenced to life imprisonment.
She killed her husband.

Florence Washing Machine.

I have bought the right to sell the Florence Washing Machine and am now prepared to furnish all who may wish to save their clothes from the rubbing and tearing incident to the old process of washing. Take one and try it and be convinced.
I'll not worry you about buying unless you are fully satisfied as to its merits.

NOTICE.

To the Citizens of Lincoln County:

Having recently equipped a fine Roller Mill in the town of Stanford, Ky., we are now ready to grind all kinds of grain, and to furnish all the quality of flour, we think the citizens of the county should have every privilege enough to patronize and sustain the same. We wish to inform them that we are now in the line of business to buy your wheat and corn and will always give the highest market price for same. We have added some new machinery to our corn mill department and can now make meal to suit any person. It cannot be equaled by any other mill in this vicinity. We will at a trial in our line meal department. All having grain in our line for sale will please call at Mill, where our agent can be found at all times, who will give the best price for same. Brand and ship stuff always in stock.

Stanford Roller Mill Co.

Notice of Amendment
Articles of Incorporation.

The undersigned amend the articles of incorporation of the Stanford Roller Mill Company, adopted Feb. 17, 1887, and on that day filed for record in the Clerk's office of Lincoln county, Ky., as follows:

1. The Capital Stock of said Company shall be forty thousand dollars.
2. The corporation shall at no time incur a debt exceeding twenty six thousand six hundred and fifty dollars.

Purchasing Agency!

MISS SALLIE HARRISON,

Formerly of Stanford, has opened a Purchasing Agency in Cincinnati, and all orders to her at 127 West 5th street, will receive personal and prompt attention. She will make a specialty of Dress Goods, but will receive orders for Furniture, Carpets and in fact everything one could wish. The patronage of the ladies of this section especially solicited. 201-1f

BRODHEAD, Ky., May, 1887.

Allright & Martin beg to inform their many friends and customers of change in firm name to

MARTIN & PERKINS.

The new firm hopes not only to sustain the reputation of the old, but intends to make many improvements in the manufacture of tobacco which will be to the interest of our customers. We will devote special attention to our Natural Leaf brands of Kentucky's best leaf. Thanking you for past patrons and asking for a continuation of your trade,
we remain,
Respectfully yours,
5-6m
MARTIN & PERKINS.

DR. I. S. BURDETT, OCULIST.

has successfully treated hundreds of cases. Special attention is given to the treatment of all diseases of the eyes. Name and address of patients cured given on application if desired. 220-6m.

—CHICKEN—
Cholera Cure!

Thousands of dollars worth of chickens die every year from Choléra. It is more fatal to chickens than all other diseases combined. But the discovery of a remedy that positively cures it has been made, and to be convinced of its efficacy only requires a trial. A 50-cent bottle is enough for one hundred chickens. It is guaranteed. If, after using two-thirds of a bottle, the buyer is not thoroughly satisfied with it as a cure for Chicken Cholera, return it to the undersigned and your money will be refunded.
For sale by McRoberts & Stagg, Stanford.

W. P. WALTON.

It may not be generally known, but there was a law passed by the legislature in 1879, see Acts of that year, chapter 1496, which requires that drug stores in counties where prohibition laws prevail, shall obtain a license from the county court to sell liquors of any kind, before it is lawful for him to do so, even on pre-emption. In order to obtain this license it is necessary to give the county attorney ten days' written notice and to post similar notices at three or more public places stating that the application will be made and when. The court may then, upon satisfactory proof that the applicant for the license is of good character and in good faith a dealer in drugs and medicines, grant him the necessary license to sell liquors for one year, provided the applicant gives bond with two or more sufficient sureties that he will not violate any of the laws regulating the traffic in liquors and will sell only upon the prescription of a practicing physician, plainly written, dated and signed, which prescription he shall paste in a book for the purpose and carefully preserve. No prescription shall authorize the sale of more than one quart. A failure to procure such license subjects the offender to a fine of not less than $50 nor more than $100, or imprisonment for not less than 10 nor more than 30 days or both, the proceedings to be by indictment of the grand jury. The same fine and penalty attaches for a violation of the conditions of the license and a conviction carries with it a forfeiture of the right to sell at all. Druggists in this and other prohibition localities would do well to see this matter at once.

The attorney general of Virginia preferred to go to jail for paying $500 for contempt of the orders of United States Judge Bond. An application was at once made for a writ of habeas corpus to the U. S. Supreme Court and it will be argued at once. The Virginians are much incensed over the matter believing that State sovereignty and the personal liberty of her officers are involved. Gov. Lee characterizes the judge's action as an outrage upon the constitution and rights of the State and says: All States are interested in preserving their constitutional rights, and if the Supreme Court sustains this Federal Judge, the sooner the States insist on an amendment to the constitution protecting, defending and preserving their rights from such encroachments, the better.

CONVICTS who prefer death to the penitentiary are not numerous, but two have shown up in a week. At Chattanooga one cut his jugular and bled to death before he could be taken out of the court-house because he was sent up for five years and at Pontiac, Mich., Charles DeGroat, charged with perjury, rather than endure the disgrace of being sent to a penal institution took a dose of opium and died from the effects of the poison. It is to be hoped that for the sake of the public good, the example of these two will find many imitators all over the country.

THE railroad disaster on the Chicago & Atlantic is but a little less horrible than the numerous others of similar nature that have occurred recently. Nearly all have resulted from criminal carelessness and such things will continue to be until the officers are held to a stricter accountability. The details of the last accident to which was added the burning of the half crushed victims are enough to make one's blood run cold.

SENATOR HARRIS says he will introduce a bill in the next legislature to cut the railroad commissioners' pay from $2,000 to $800 a year. The latter would be a sufficient salary for the amount of services rendered, but we will bet our last summer's straw hat that the bill will not pass. It is as easy as rolling off a log to increase salaries, but the hardest matter possible to reduce them.

THOSE who had himself interviewed, when he stated that he was elected over Mr. Carlisle by 700 votes and that he had the utmost faith that he would be given his rights by congress after an investigation, Mr. Thobbs seems not only to be a very facile prevaricator, but also to possess a very sanguine temperament.

INSTEAD of the voter going to the voting place, the voting place will go to the voter in Boyle county. The democratic county committee has arranged for a committee to call on all democrats to express their choice in the race for the sheriff's office. The plan has been tried in other counties and is said to have worked well.

JUDGE DUVALL, one of the finest lawyers in the State, decides that Sam Hill can hold both the office of Senator and adjutant general, as they are not incompatible under the law, and it is hoped that he will not be influenced by a republican press in resigning, either.

MR. CLEVELAND told the St. Paul people that he thought more of his wife than of any earthly honor that could be bestowed upon him and thanked them for not spoiling or marrying her while she was there as a school girl.

THE Lexington Transcript is ten years old. Its present editor and owner, Mr. D. E. Caldwell, has had it for over half that time and to him belongs the credit of placing it among the best dailies in the State.

AN attempt to pass a resolution of sympathy for the condemned anarchists, pledging their warmest endeavors to secure a commutation of their sentences and condemning capital punishment in general, was offered in the Knights of Labor convention at Minneapolis. It was promptly ruled out of order by Mr. Powderly, and upon an appeal being taken to the ruling, he vacated the chair and made one of the most earnest speeches of his life against such suicidal action. Numerous hot-headed delegates championed the resolutions and after pantomimic had reigned for an hour, the ruling was sustained by a vote of 151 to 52. It is well for the order that the counsel of better men prevailed. The knights of labor are not regarded with as high esteem as formerly and to have espoused this cause of the murderous anarchists would have wiped out the last vestige of public sympathy with them.

We have always had a great admiration for Simon Bolivar Bickner, but the more we read of his acts since becoming governor the more we like him. His head seems to be entirely level on the pardoning question and if he adheres to the rule he has laid down he will earn the plaudits of every good citizen. His latest act is to refuse to pardon George Buchanan, who forged warehouse receipts in Louisville and fled to Canada, because he thinks that it is only in very exceptional cases that a pardon should be granted before trial and because "the accused has placed himself beyond the reach, both of the courts and of the executive, and defeated all legitimate interference by persisting in his absence. To exercise the power under such circumstances would be to defeat the ends of justice."

A FELLOW in jail at Maysville for attempted rape has made two ineffectual attempts to commit suicide. The jailer ought to furnish him sufficient facilities for completing the job at the next trial.

NOTES OF CURRENT EVENTS.

—The Colored Normal School at Frankfort opened with 11 pupils.
—At Sioux City Wednesday the President inspected a house built entirely of corn.

—Morris Sessman, at Louisville, nearly severed his head from his body with a razor and died instantly.

—Dan Johnson stabbed and killed another negro named Ike Lewis, at Lexington, over a game of craps.

—The Niobrara Land and Cattle Company, incorporated in East St. Louis, has failed with liabilities of $350,000.

—The construction of the Louisville Southern is being pushed rapidly and 60 miles are now ready for the rails.

—The Postmaster at Tampa, Fla., telegraphs the Washington authorities that there is no yellow fever there, but only dengue fever.

—A Lebanon Enterprise Extra says that after a two-days' examining trial Edgar Beard was discharged for the murder of Clem Rawlings.

—Andy Johnson, the Bell county murderer, is among the list of those who were indicted for moonshining, by the Federal court at Louisville.

—At Plevna a riot occurred Monday during the election for members of the So-branje. Twenty-four persons were killed and thirty wounded.

—Messrs. Matt Walton, Young Allison and John R. Procter are delegates to the centennial exposition at Cincinnati in 1888, appointed by the governor.

—Lon Preston and a fellow named Bryant fought at a church near Madisonville last Sunday over an old grudge, when the latter stabbed the former to death.

—The republicans carried the Indianapolis municipal election and in Cassinoga, where they usually elect their man by 1,000, the democrats elect this time by 118.

—Mrs. Ella Robinson, wife of a Louisville hardware dealer, committed suicide in New York by jumping from the second story window of her boarding house.

—A member will sit in the next legislature of Kentucky who was but 6 months old when the war commenced, yet he is already the proud father of ten healthy children.

—President Cleveland's hand shaking record at Chicago was 43 hands per minute. Mr. Cleveland evidently does not need any palsy to make him a more successful shaker.

—On the Iron Mountain road several days ago the Pacific Express was robbed of a sum varying between $30,000 and $40,000. J. B. Owens, the messenger, has disappeared.

—Hon. J. Randolph Tucker has been retained for the defense in the case of the Chicago Anarchists, and is in New York in consultation with Gen. Roger A. Pryor, his associate counsel.

—The Queen & Crescent announce that they will have tickets for sale for the Atlanta Exposition on the 13th, 17th and 20th of this month. The rates are one fare for the round-trip at 1 cent per mile.

—A syndicate of Springfield, Ohio, and Eastern capitalists has purchased 65,000 acres of coal land in Breathitt county and will at once open mines and build needed railroads in the county. The company has a capital of $3,000,000.

—Judge Thomas C. Manning, United States Minister to Mexico, died in New York, where he came to attend the meeting of the Peabody Educational Fund, of which he was one of the trustees. The cause of his death was an obstruction of the bowels.

—The first game for the base ball championship of the world was played at St. Louis Monday by the club of that city, champions of the Association, and the Detroit, champions of the League, 13,000 spectators being present. St. Louis won by a score of 6 to 1.

—The Northern Ohio Insane Asylum partially burned and with it six of the helpless inmates.

—R. S. Hicks, cashier of the Stafford, Conn., National Bank, has gotten away with $100,000 of the institution's funds.

—C. L. Cecil bought of C. C. Rayner 18 head of 2 year old fat mules, about 14 hands high, at $82.57 per head. — [Lebanon Standard.]

—The 16th annual session of the American Bankers' Association is being held in Pittsburgh. President Murray stated that the association is composed of 9,000 banks, representing over $4,000,000,000 in capital, surplus and deposits. Of these 3,000 are national, the remainder are private and State banks, trust companies and saving institutions.

—William D. Brockway, the most notorious forger in this country, was Monday released from Sing Sing, after having served a five years' sentence for forging railroad bonds and coupons. In 1867 Brockway counterfeited $90,000 in government bonds, and in 1880 repeated the experiment to the amount of $204,000 and has been guilty of many lesser offenses.

—At Routs, Indiana, on the Chicago & Atlantic road, an east-bound passenger train was run into Monday night by a freight train and probably 30 lives lost. The passenger train, which was drawn by a disabled engine, was closely followed by the heavy freight, and when the former stopped to take water the latter crashed into it, the rear sleeper being forced into the light passenger coaches in front of it, tearing them into splinters. The wreck at once took fire and the flames speedily and hopelessly surrounded the shrieking victims, who were wholly beyond the help of those who had escaped.

An Interview with Mr. Miller.

To the Editor of the Interior Journal: LANCASTER, October 13.—The Central News of this date contains as an item of public information, the statement that warrants of arrest had been issued in 17 different cases by the police judge of Lancaster against John W. Miller for selling liquor without license. Knowing that the foundation of such procedure was to be found in the rather unusual course of the town trustees in first granting license to Miller and then, after license had been issued, revoking it, I concluded to interview Mr. Miller to ascertain the course he proposed to pursue with reference to the warrants. Said he: "Of course I will defend them. I feel a profound conviction that I am not guilty, either in law or morals, of a public offense. It is conceded by even the most pronounced and earnest prohibitionist that there is no statute, other than the one voted on by our people last October, forbidding the granting of license. This statute Judge Morrow held, on my application for license, to be invalid. And while he subsequently declined to entertain the application because the circuit court, in his judgment, does not have jurisdiction in such cases, I have reason to know that his opinion of this statute remains the same. I have further reason to believe that there are but few, if any, attorneys who practice at this bar whose opinions in this regard differ from Judge Morrow's. Now, having obtained my license, both from the State and town authorities, I submit to the public that I should not be disturbed in my enjoyment of the privileges under it until a court, having the proper jurisdiction, shall formally decide that the statute is valid. I am not proposing to violate any town ordinance, or to defy the authority of the trustees. But it should be apparent to every one that the police court of Lancaster is not the court in which to test the constitutionality of an act or the validity of a statute. Suppose the police judge should compel me to pay a fine and I should sue the trustees in the circuit court and compel them to pay it back to me, as I can certainly do, if they wrongfully collect money from me, what good can be accomplished?"

Suppose the trustees should prosecute these warrants against me, and I should sue them in the circuit court for malicious prosecution, what would prevent me from getting a judgment against them if Judge Morrow adheres to his opinion that our so-called local option law is invalid?

I perceive no good that can result to anyone by this course. The only question really at issue is: Have we a valid local option law? That question the police court cannot decide. When it is decided by the court having jurisdiction of such questions, I will conform my action to their mandate. The manner in which these warrants have been gotten out demonstrates to my mind that the public interest was not regarded in obtaining them. Nothing can possibly be settled by them. The police court might or might not decide that we have a local option law and it would settle nothing. There are questions that can very easily arise involving the entire validity of the charter of the town of Lancaster, but I do not care to raise them. I am a citizen of the town and have property interests in it and prefer to see it, of course, under a proper municipal government; but if I am forced by the town to fight, when I want to be let alone, I will fight for all that is in sight. The town would incur expense in defending suits to maintain its charter, and at the end the local option question would still be an open one. Let them let this matter rest until a court of proper jurisdiction can settle it, and then if I am found guilty I will try and endure the penalty. The trustees should bear in mind that they have never hitherto refused license when there is no law forbidding the license. The only issue between us now is that I contend there is no law, and possibly some of them contend that there is. Let a competent court decide the matter and I will abide the result.

FAIRPLAY.

MT. VERNON, ROCKCASTLE COUNTY.

—Miss Rachel Jones, aged 16, died Tuesday of flux.

—N. M. Shumate sold 10 shoats to W. B. Smith at 4 cents.

—The baby left sometime since at Wm. Ripier's is said to belong to a woman named Magaby, who was formerly of this county.

—William Peas has bought a $2,500 farm near Pine Hill. Jerome Price has sold his farm situated five miles northwest of this place to Mr. J. Moore, an Oakland, for $1,500.

—Business is business! Old accounts must be settled. Come in and see me. If you have not the money, give your note. The old firm's business must be closed. This is to all who owe me. Take heed before you are visited by an officer. F. L. Thompson 2t

—That Rockcastle family mentioned by our friend Bardett, of Lancaster, as having passed through St. Louis on their return to their native hills with a farewell address to the West painted on their wagon cover, has arrived and gone to work putting in wheat, preparing for winter, &c., and all are happy as June bugs.

—Mr. J. W. Nesbitt, the slave man, has just closed a trade with Messrs. E. E. and A. H. Evans, of Zanesville, Ohio, for the white oak timber on a 1,700 acre tract of land near this place formerly owned by C. A. Radd. Mr. Nesbitt will move his slave buckers and mills to the land immediately and run a big business in the slave line.

—Judge E. E. Evans, of Zanesville, Ohio, was here Tuesday and Wednesday. Mrs. M. B. Bragg is visiting Knoxville. "Expulsionable" Owens says its but a question of time when the people will see things in the same light that he does regarding matters connected with official affairs, connected with the race he once proposed to run.

—It is suggested by several citizens in various parts of the county that those holding county offices inform the people whether or not there remains on the statute book a general or any other law requiring the people to do militia duty on the county roads. The various amendments of the road laws passed during the last two sessions have placed the whole matter in doubt.

—Reva A. J. Pike and Jesse Tyree have been holding a protracted meeting at Sayre's school-house near Freedom church, this county, resulting in 42 additions, 40 by confession. Twenty one were baptized last Sunday and 19 will be baptized Saturday next at Freedom. Bro. Pike is now holding a meeting at Oak Hill. The Rev. Hiett is continuing the revival series at the Christian church, this place. Nineteen were baptized Tuesday and 8 or 10 more will be baptized during this week. Verily a religious wave has struck the county.

—Mr. A. W. Norton, an influential farmer living on Rockcastle river, near the mouth of Skeggs creek, this county, says it's rather late to mention the fact, but not finding an opportunity to do so before he wishes to inquire of the Laurel Fair Company why they awarded the premium to a horse in the walking ring that was beaten by his horse 20 seconds. He states that the ring was open to all competition and that the judges were tying the blue on his horse when they discovered he was from this county and then gave it to another.

—The various correspondents from this place to that sprightly youngster, the Williamsburg Salmagundi have a picnic writing about each other's laziness. One accuses another of having stood a fair show of receiving the prize for being the dullest boy in town, at last club meeting, but he was asleep and the prize passed to the next man awake. In retaliation the sleepy man says the other is so lazy the dogs won't look at him. Bro. Whitehead, the clever editor, should watch the boys and advise them to be careful in their remarks regarding each other or a duel may be the result.

On the night of Oct. 1st a party of men went to the house of the widow Morgan, living in the northern part of this county and whipped the old lady and her three daughters. On Wednesday night following the same party called at the house and after breaking the door down went in and knocked two of the women down by striking them over the head with guns and clubs, and taking them out gave them another thrashing. One of the women did good execution with a chair before they overcame her. She cleared the doorway for a while, knocking one of the attacking party senseless and scattering the crowd. Writs were afterwards sworn out against James Barnett, Joe Kimble, two of the Baileys, Evan Davis and two of the Brinknays, charged with being the parties who did the ku-kluxing. The examining trial was set for Monday last before a magistrate and continued to Wednesday next. Some surprise may be expressed by the truly loyal when it is shown that all the parties charged with this outrage are republicans. At election and nearly all other times it has been preached that all kuklux in this and other counties were democrats and the particulars will be given after the trial.

—The Bryn Mawr Hotel, a summer resort near Philadelphia, was destroyed by fire. Loss $230,000.

—At Hinton, West Virginia, George Martin shot and killed his wife when he discovered that previous to marriage she had lived a life of bad repute.

—Robert Garrett has resigned the presidency of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad company, but will remain in the directory, which has approved the contract for the transfer of the telegraph lines to the Western Union.

—MRS. MONTGOMERY, Mrs. J. W. Salter and Miss Carrie Hardin, daughter of the Attorney General, are guests of Mrs. Sam Owens.
—MISS HELEN REID, of Hustonville, Lincoln county, was the guest of Miss Elsie Vanmeter several days last week.—[Winchester Sun.]
—MRS. L. L. SINCLAIR, who has spent the summer here, returned to her home in Columbus, Ga., Tuesday, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Dr. Steele Bailey and her children.
—MR. R. F. WHITE has secured the position of assistant book keeper for the Scanlon Store Company, Louisville, and went thither Wednesday night. Bob is a bright and clever boy and his friends expect to hear good reports of him in his new home.

LOCAL MATTERS.

New buggy, home made and never used for sale. W. H. Higgins.
THOMAS C. BALL wants us to say that he is "waking 'em up" at Rowland with the biggest kind of a stock of goods.
THE decision in the case of Judge Higgins against the town of Crab Orchard has been reversed by the Supreme Court.
I AM daily in receipt of an elegant line of fall and winter millinery, which I invite the ladies to call and examine. S. W. Bessley.
STRAYED. A large black dog with white spot on breast; answers to the name "Joe." A liberal reward will be paid for his recovery. Mrs. Smith Irwin, Stanford.
CHARLES ADAMS, for robbing the mails at Burnside, plead guilty before the U. S. Court this week and was fined $10 and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary.
THE Holiness evangelists, Mrs. Eliza Beth Whinston and Messrs. A. M. Raper and William Warner, are with us again for a few days and held forth on the streets yesterday.
HUSTONVILLE was represented at the theatre Wednesday night by a large delegation of her prettiest girls and handsome gentlemen. There must have been 30 of them.
NOTWITHSTANDING the Daisy Roller Mills are turning out 50 barrels of flour per day besides custom grinding, they are 250 barrels behind in their orders. Have a little patience gentlemen and they will fill your orders.
MR. L. M. LARLEY has favored a number of his friends with samples of the kind of beef he proposes to feed them on, which we can testify is A No. 1. His reputation in the line also goes to prove that he is in earnest and we trust his efforts will be liberally patronized.
MRS. W. G. WELCH has gotten up a Chautauque Club, which will be organized in a few days by Eld. McClintock, a teacher of the association. The object of the club is mutual improvement and social enjoyment. A course of books will be read and discussed, and judging from the character of those who have joined the club, it will be successful in both the objects sought.

This is the last day for bringing suits for the circuit court, which begins Monday, 24th.

I HAVE just received a handsome lot of fall goods. Call and see them. S. H. Shanks.

FRESH OYSTERS served in any style from daylight till 10 at night during the oyster season. J. T. Harris.

The little girl recently born to Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Cox died Tuesday and was buried here the following day.

NEW Navy Beans, Pickles in bulk, N. Y. Cheese, Fresh Cakes and Crackers, at A. A. Warren's "Model Grocery."

MR. MACK HUFFMAN received a telegram Tuesday from Williamsburg for a casket for Mrs. Willard Jameson, who died of child bed fever.

The law against shooting birds does not expire till the 20th, and every pot hunter or others caught violating it should have the fine of $3 for each offense slapped upon him.

The heavy frosts of yesterday and the day before seems to have about gotten away with all the vegetation that it could hurt. Ice nearly a quarter of an inch thick formed yesterday.

The trial of Steve Pennington for obtaining property from Mr. John W. Wallace on false pretenses was set for yesterday at Somerset. Mr. R. C. Warren is his attorney and thinks there will be no trouble in proving his client out of the business.

Two little corpses came up on Wednesday's train, the other being that of little Ida, daughter of James B. Leavell, who died at Mr. J. R. Logan's, near Riley's Station. It was taken to Lancaster yesterday for burial beside its mother, who died about a year ago.

THE CARPENTER CASE.—Judge Morrow sent this for last issue, but it did not arrive in time: The Carpenter case will be called at 10 o'clock A. M. Monday, 17th, and the fast freight passing Moreland at 6:40 A. M. will furnish accommodations for all the witnesses and any others who may wish to come.

I wish to inform the public that Mrs. Davies and Miss Eva Smiley will return from the cities Saturday with an elegant line of fall and winter millinery, which I invite you to call and see before buying. I also wish to inform my customers that I will be able to trim and wait upon them next week. Respectfully, Mrs. Kate Daddars.

THE good people of the Cherry Grove congregation were very much annoyed Sunday night last by the boisterous and ungovernable behavior on the part of a number of persons, whom we are told will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law, on a repetition of it. The preacher, Elder Stephen Collier, could hardly proceed with his sermon.

THE McKinney neighborhood is considerably excited over the charge that J. W. Adams killed and sold for beef a diseased cow. Mr. Adams, it seems, got the cow from Mr. L. F. Sharp, but both claim that they were unaware of her condition, if she was really diseased. The citizens say that they intend to have the case brought before the grand jury.

HARDY & YOUNG'S Bad Boy Company fully came up to expectations and gave a good performance to a large and well-pleased audience. Greiner is the typical boy and did his work well. Harry Hardy, the great cornetist, gave an excellent solo, which was loudly encored. The brass band and orchestra proved a fine feature, both being composed of fine musicians.

It seems that when M. J. Theodore King moved out to Mr. van de Water's farm he was mistaken in which of them was going to England. At any rate, he has gone himself and numerous and sundry creditors are bemoaning their luck in reposing confidence in him. The small amount of effects that he left has been attached, but they are claimed by Mr. van de Water.

AMONG the latest suits for divorce is that of Bob Whitley against Angelina Whitley. Bob charges that she is living with another man and has had a child by him, which allegations if true ought to secure him the coveted decree. Speaking of divorces, a white woman called on Clerk James P. Bailey the other day and demanded a divorce immediately, if not sooner. He explained to her that he could not give her the proper relief, but she insisted on reading him a paper that she had prepared, setting forth the grounds for her request, which the affable clerk pronounced sufficient, and she departed, evidently of the impression that she was a free woman.

MARRIAGES.

—Miss Helen Duvray, the actress, and John M. Ward, short-stop of the New York baseball club, were yesterday married privately at New York.

—At the residence of the bride's father, Rev. John A. Bogle, and by that gentleman, Miss Lucy M. Bogle and Dr. Noah Hayes, of Kansas, were united in matrimony on the 12th. They left at once for the home of the groom where he enjoys a good practice and is held in high esteem. The bride is both handsome and accomplished, besides possessing in an eminent degree the wit and other distinguishing and excellent traits of her worthy father. May she find in her new relation and location, if possible, as warm and true hearts as she leaves behind and live in happiness and contentment to a ripe old age.

—E. T. Young sold to A. Cimenich 6 yearling heifers at 3 cents.

DEATHS.

—Mr. George W. King, who has been ill for sometime of pneumonia, died Wednesday night at his home in the East End, aged 62. An upright, conscientious and honest man, he attended strictly to his own business, but was ever ready to respond to the calls upon him as a neighbor and as a citizen. In early life he was married to Miss Elizabeth Welch, who preceded him to the grave some 15 years. Three children, all girls, survive him, and the deep sympathy is felt for them in their heartbreaking affliction. Mr. King professed religion during Brother Barnes' Crab Orchard meeting a few years ago and at once attached himself to the Baptist church, of which he has since been a faithful and consistent member. The funeral will occur at day at his church in Crab Orchard at 11 o'clock, Elder George W. Yancy officiating, after which the remains will be interred in the cemetery there.

RELIGIOUS.

—Talmage announced last Sunday that his church had received during the year 725 souls by confession of faith.

—The Seventh day Adventists are holding their annual camp meeting at Elizabethtown. Their main tent has a seating capacity of 600.

—The people of Louisville are arranging to spend $10,000 to get Moody and Sankey to preach there a month, when there is Brother Munday right there to do the work at much less than half price.

—Eld. R. A. Hopper is holding a series of meetings at Woodbine, Whitley county. Up to Sunday night there had been 30 additions, of which 21 were by baptism.—[Lexington Standard.]

—Elder A. J. Tribble, assisted by Elder B. F. Taylor, who did most of the preaching, and did it well, closed a 12 days' meeting at Prescheville last Friday. Result, a revival of religion in the community; alienations and differences among the people of long standing removed and wretches great good done; 13 added to the church.

—The Grand Lodge of Good Templars is in session at Louisville. The report of the Secretary and Treasurer shows that there were 77 lodges organized during the year; two lodges reinstated, and 59 suspended. The order has now 134 lodges, with a total membership of 6,368, a net gain during the year of 1,495. The Grand Lodge has been laboring under a heavy debt for several years, but is now about paid out, and is in excellent working condition for the coming year.

LAND, STOCK AND CROP.

—J. B. Leavell's sale of stock occurs on the 20th near Bryantville.

—Forester Reid sold to Carter & Givens 25 head 260 pound hogs at $1.10.

—Cattle are quiet in Louisville at 2 to 4 20; hogs are active, with best selling at 4 1/2 to 4 3/4; fair to good shipping sheep 3 to 3 1/2; common 1 to 2 1/2.

—Shuff & Nichols sold to Dr. McLeod, of Versailles, thirty-four mule colts at $53.50 per head. There were only seven horse colts among them.—[Georgetown Times.]

—Abe Coleman, of Harrodsburg, was thrown from his sulky while showing a horse at the Owsensboro Fair and was struck on the head by the hoof of a horse in the rear and seriously hurt.

—Joe Croxton sold to J. A. Nash 40 1,200 pound, 2-year-old cattle, to be delivered November 20th at 3 cents. A better feeling is prevailing in regard to prices of feeding cattle, and some of our best posted cattle men think they will be higher yet.—[Winchester Democrat.]

—At E. T. Young's sale yesterday the farming implements brought good prices; brood mares sold at from $66.75 to $150; 1 yearling Silly $106; suckling colt by Harry O'Fallon $216; mules at from $240 to $267.50 per pair; milk cows $20 to $27.50; steer calves $11; shoats 3 cents; stacks of hay $9 to $12.

—W. M. Robb, of Clintonville, killed 58 doves last week at one shot, and would have killed more, but that number made up the entire flock.—[Paris Kentuckian.]

We wouldn't for anything accuse Bro. Craddock of lying, but he seems to have handled the truth rather recklessly in this paragraph.

—Tom Wood sold Saturday 28 head of tip-top yearling cattle at $3.25 per cwt. At Haggard's sale 3 year old mules brought $100 to $125 and colts $40 to $70; corn in sacks $2.25 per barrel. Col. H. P. Thomson sold privately last week 500 hogheads of Burley leaf at an average of 20 cents, the sale amounting to $130,000.—[Winchester Sun.]

DANVILLE, BOYLE COUNTY.

—Harrison Devine and Jane Rowsey, widow of the late George Rowsey, obtained marriage license Thursday.

—James Kinnaird has sold to James H. Gentry 85 feet of ground, corner Lexington street and Shakerstown pike, for a brick house, which will cost $2,400.

—A miserable vandal entered the Caldwell-Cumberland Presbyterian church in this county a few nights ago and cut to pieces a new carpet the ladies of the church had put down a few days before.

—Messrs. Bailey and Moore, the rival candidates for the democratic nomination for sheriff are to have their claims decided as follows. One friend of each to go in pairs through each precinct and take the sense of all democratic voters as to their preference and when the whole county has been thus canvassed to report to the county committee, who will then announce the nominee.

—Capt. D. A. Murphy and family left Wednesday for Findley, Ohio, where the Captain has been for several months editing the Findley Tribune. With all his eccentricities the captain is not without his good points. He is true to his friends and not afraid of satin. Mr. B. G. Boyle has gone to LaCrescent, Wis., to be absent several weeks. Revs. C. B. H. Martin, J. L. McKee, Sr., J. L. McKee, Jr., and Gen. S. S. Fry attended the meeting of the Synod of Kentucky at Lebanon this week. B. F. Reeder, recently employed in Smith & Anderson's mill, has gone to Higginsport, Ohio. Rev. S. E. Wishard, D. D. the Presbyterian evangelist, has gone to Des Moines, Iowa, where he will take charge of a church with 700 members. Mr. W. L. Sumrall, a recent graduate of Centre College, is pursuing a laboratory course at Harvard. Mr. J. W. Yerkes is absent on a business trip to New York. Rev. H. M. Linney and Messrs. W. O. Goodloe and Albert Hommel are in Kansas City. James C. Nichols expects shortly to remove to that city. Mrs. George Sandifer, Jr., is visiting her sister, Mrs. Gillespie, at Greenwood. Mr. R. G. Evans left on Thursday for Baltimore, where he will continue his laboratory studies at John Hopkins' University.

LONDON, LAUREL COUNTY.

—Messrs. Faris & Co. are working a large force of hands on their new brick building in order to get it completed by winter.

—Russell T. Ramsey and Lizzie E. Brown were united in marriage at the Methodist church Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by Prof. Shackelford, of Lexington. The church was handsomely decorated and was crowded to its utmost capacity.

—Miss Pearl Brown, of Lancaster, and Miss Bettie Gibson, of Madison county, are visiting Miss Kate Brown. Prof. Miller gave an entertainment at the court house Wednesday and Thursday nights. J. H. Crawford, of Crawford Postoffice, has moved into the property vacated by H. C. Everole. C. N. Cull, of Mumfordsville, and Col. W. W. Helm, of Louisville, are here on business. Mrs. Maggie Perman, wife of Reed Perman, died of consumption Tuesday evening after a lingering illness of 12 months. W. A. Parsley has recovered from the fever and is out again. Mrs. Jas. Randall, of California, with her two children, is visiting Mrs. W. H. Randall.

Bringing Him to Time.

It is not very unusual to come across a mother who, after a long series of invitations given and accepted, and after throwing one of her daughters constantly into the society of a man, and taking every opportunity of leaving them alone together, on finding that he will not "come to the point" as she had hoped, suddenly swoops down upon him and asks him his intentions. This is a most trying ordeal for a man who is not an "old hand," and who has not plenty of savoir-faire and brass, as the lady paints in the strongest the deep affection her daughter has for him, and with many tears, carefully pumped up, explains that she has been driven to this course, much against her will, by seeing her daughter's happiness imperiled and her health injured by the uncertainty as to whether her love is returned. She then goes on to enumerate, with numerous applications of her handkerchief to her eyes, the many and manifold virtues of her daughter, her singlemindedness and affectionate disposition, and lays great stress on her tender-heartedness, telling how her heart, which has hitherto been untouched, is riven and torn with affection for, and anxiety as to the course that will be taken by this misbehaving young man. A touch of real nature then appears as she apostrophizes him for monopolizing the society of her daughter and keeping away other men if he has no intentions, which she stigmatizes as most cruel and ungentlemanlike behavior. If the victim does not succumb before these remonstrances her last weapon is her husband's wrath, which she flaunts in his face and threatens him with, intimating to him that, as her mild exhortations having failed, she will have to request him to hold an interview with the outraged father. This final outburst is more likely to produce a smile than anything else, as the delinquent knows well that the last thing the father would think of doing would be to hold an interview on such a subject. [London Saturday Review.]

What the Preachers Think of Cleveland.

A Chicago paper issued a big extra in honor of President Cleveland, in which opinions of him from every source obtainable were published. Below is what Bishop Dudley and Chancellor Blanton say of him:

MY DEAR SIR—I have great pleasure in saying that to me the Administration of President Cleveland has brought a better hope for the future to my country. His unwavering adherence to the policy outlined in the platform on which he was elected, his successful withstanding of the partisan influences brought to bear to make him depart from his pledged course, and the approval of his action by the people, in spite of the politicians—these are grounds for rejoicing among patriots. Honesty, impartiality, common sense and courage—these are the characteristics of Cleveland as of Washington. May he long be our President. Respectfully, T. U. DUDLEY.

MY DEAR SIR—I will say that I regard Mr. Cleveland one of the most remarkable public men of the age in these respects: First, his thorough grasp of the duties of his office. Second, the clearness and force with which he gives expression to his views on all public questions. Third, his honesty and courage in dealing with men, and in fulfilling all pledges, so his party and to the people. No man, in my judgment since the days of Washington has been animated by a higher moral purpose and determination, under all circumstances, to do right. Very truly yours,

J. H. BLANTON,
Chancellor Central University.

Probably the biggest yoke of oxen in the world are on exhibition at the Eastern Maine State Fair last week. They were raised in Vermont and measure ten feet in girth and actually weigh 7,000 pounds. It cost to raise them up to their great weight over $1,000.

According to the statistics the average man throughout the civilized world annually consumes 445 pounds of grain, 70 pounds of meat, 7 pounds of butter, and 20 pounds of sugar, of the total value of $5.65.

An ice company in Oregon is preparing storage room for eight thousand tons of ice, which it expects to save the coming winter, and ship to southern California.

The convict population of the United States, not counting the rogues out of jail, is 64,349, or one to every 930 inhabitants.

She Kissed Him.

The Presidential party were now as far forward on the topmost deck of the steamer as it could get, and as everybody seemed aboard that belonged there, the pilot blew a blast on his whistle that caused the President to turn around. His face wore an anxious look, the cause of which was understood when he exclaimed:

"I wonder what has become of my wife?"

Just then there was a flutter of excitement around the top of the private ladder, and the pretty face of Mrs. Cleveland popped up in the sunlight. Here were as bright as diamonds and glistened with pleasure at the sight of their lord and master. When her feet were on the deck a passageway was opened for her, and she ran forward with girlish glee to the massive frame that stood invitingly with arms akimbo to receive her.

"Hear I am, dear," exclaimed Mrs. Cleveland.

"I see you."

As Mr. Cleveland said this he smiled, as it were, all over.

With a kittenish skip that quite became her Mr. Cleveland approached him, and taking his chubby cheeks between her dainty palms, imprinted a velvet kiss right square on his presidential moustache on a line direct with the base of the olfactory nerve.

Mr. Cleveland looked between the fringe on the back of his head and the top of his No. 22-inch collar, but Mrs. Cleveland wasn't disconcerted at all, and she turned around and smiled as sweetly as though she was in the habit of doing that sort of thing just about that time every day.

The crowd on the levee saw the embrace, and was evidently delighted, for it gave three such rousing cheers as would have commanded an encore in any well regulated theatre. [Globe Democrat.]

How Chauncey Got the Girl.

In a railroad speech the other day Chauncey Depew made this fine point:

"In my early career, before I became interested in my wife, and would not look at any other girl, or before she knew me well enough to be jealous of the other girls, I went out one evening to call upon the prettiest young lady in the village. When I got there I found a young man from New York with a Crony & Latuit on [laughter] and with all the latest metropolitan stories and graces, and I knew that, as a simple countryman, I was gone. I looked at Mr. Fifth Avenue with animosity and Mr. Fifth Avenue looked at me with contempt. Subsequently her father came in to meet Mr. Fifth Avenue and then I remembered that the old Captain had a theory showing how Napoleon might have won the battle of Waterloo. He had told it to me a hundred times, and I said, 'Captain, Mr. Fifth Avenue never heard how Wellington might have been defeated at Waterloo,' and Mr. Fifth Avenue, not knowing what was in store for him, asked the Captain to tell the story. I had two of the most delightful hours [laughter] I ever passed in my life up to that time with the young lady in the back room, and when I came out Mr. Fifth Avenue lay paralyzed on the sofa [laughter] and the Captain had just gotten down to the charge of Marshal Ney and the Imperial Guard." [Laughter.]

Those Grasping Railway Monopolies.

A magazine published in Philadelphia in 1818 gave the following as an item of news: "In the course of the 12 months of 1817, 12,000 wagons passed the Alleghany mountains from Philadelphia and Baltimore, each with from four to six horses, carrying from 35 to 40 hundredweight. The cost of carriage was about $7 per hundredweight, in some cases as high as $10, to Philadelphia. The aggregate sum paid for the conveyance of goods exceeded $1,500,000." To move a ton of freight between Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, therefore cost not less than $140 and took probably two weeks' time. In 1886 the average amount received by the Pennsylvania railroad for the carriage of freight was three quarters of one cent per ton per mile. The distance from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh is 385 miles, so that the ton which cost $140 in 1817 was carried in 1886 for $2.87. At the former time the workman in Philadelphia had to pay $14 for moving a barrel of flour from Pittsburgh, against 25 cents now. The Pittsburgh consumer paid $7 freight on every 100 pounds of dry goods brought from Philadelphia, which 100 pounds is now hauled in two days at a cost of 14 cents.

Strawberry raisers the past season have noticed the surprising effect of water upon the development of their favorite fruit. It was plain that the drouth was working a retarding effect on both plants and fruit, which nothing but systematic irrigation or gentle rains seemed competent to reach. It has been thoroughly learned that one can not have strawberries in paying quantities without supplying the plants with sufficient water if nature withholds her usual contributions in this particular. And if the water be pumped from deep, cold wells at night and to subject it to the warming rays of the sun before applying it to the plants. Again, "irrigation" is better than sprinkling from a watering pot.

It is said that a dog howling beneath a window is a sure sign of death. We believe it. That is, if he is at our window and in range of our new double barrel action, breech loading, double barrel gun.

The Editor and the Edited.

Attempts at thrashing and assassinating editors in Kentucky have become some what frequent. The editor of the INTERIOR JOURNAL, who is in the habit of calling a spade a spade, was murdered last week because he published an account of an assassination and called it so instead of referring to it as an "unhappy affair." Later, the Hon. W. N. Sweeney, of Owensboro, once a candidate for U. S. Senator, took umbrage at some remark in the Owensboro Messenger, a paper which is in the habit of publishing facts, and assaulted Mr. Woodson, its editor. It so happened that at the time of the assault Mr. Woodson was barely recovered from a severe illness, but he nevertheless was getting in effective work on his assailant when they were separated. Newspapers are conducted for the purpose of publishing the news and giving to the public facts concerning the history of each day. It is the right and duty of the newspaper to do this fairly and impartially; and when it is done for a public purpose and concerning an event which is of public interest, no man has any right to complain. In the days of political organs it was considered unnecessary to publish facts. Opinions carefully prepared at headquarters, and which carefully eliminated everything which could give cause of offense to our "distinguished fellow citizen" were the order of the day; but the day has passed, the independent newspaper is in the field, and if the people want to feel with the buzz saw they will be apt to have their fingers cut. [Covington Commonwealth.]

The Editor's Bride.

The good book has said that it is not well for man to be alone. It has been saying so for about 2,000 years, more or less, but it was only yesterday that we conceded that such was indeed the case and proceeded to get us a wife. Our readers are no doubt well acquainted with the Widow Blodgers, who keeps the boarding house just around the corner from this office, good, clean beds and a square meal for 50 cents. There in that mansion it was that the shot from Capt. Blodger's bow was shot through our too tender heart. Yes, there we saw the Widow Blodgers and it was there we saw and we saw her. It was on a moonlight night she approached us with a board bill in her hand, but all undaunted we fell at her feet and poured forth the tale of affection that filled our bosom. Need we say that the moon looked down with watery eyes through the dark, awaying boughs of the oak? Need we say that fair head nestled on our editorial shoulders and she said she would be our N! but such was the case, and to-night we are a married man.

The ceremony? Who can tell about it? There was the parson we promised him $2; there was the bride, all white flubdubs and vails and flowers and ribbons and smiles, and there was we—the whole is summed up in the confession we hereby breathe forth to the brethren of the press—we are no longer we—we are us. [Eagle Gush War Whoop.]

It Pays to Think.

A strange instance of the extent to which labor saving machinery is carried nowadays is shown in the tin can industry. Everybody knows that tin cans are manufactured by machinery. One of the machines used in the process solders the longitudinal seams of the cans at the rate of 50 a minute, the cans rushing along in a continuous stream. Now, of course, a drop or two of solder is left on the can. The drop on the outside can be easily cleaned away, but it is not easy to secure the drop left on the inside. It wouldn't do, of course, to retard the speed of the work—better waste the drop, it is only a trifle, anyhow, and to 99 men in a hundred it would not seem worth a minute's attention. The hundredth man worked for a firm using these machines and he set about devising an ingenious arrangement for wiping the inside of the can, there by saying that drop of solder and leaving none to come in contact with the contents of the can. He was encouraged by his employers to patent his invention, did so, and has already received several thousand dollars in royalties for its use. As the machine solders 20,000 cans a day, the solder saved by his invention amounted to $15 a day. It pays to think.

Two of a kind—A rather sharp looking gentleman sat opposite a roughly dressed man on an elevator car. The roughly dressed man was remarkable for his bow legs. "My friend," said the gentleman, "pardon my curiosity, but how did you acquire such a peculiar curve in your leg?" "When I was a boy I went in swimming one day. When I came out I laid down on the grass to dry. I fell asleep and when I woke up the sun had warped my legs," replied the man with the peculiar legs. "My friend," said the gentleman, "allow me to take you by the hand. We are two of a kind. I prepare the affidavits to the circulation of a certain New York daily paper."

A man has spent 15 years in solving the problem of boring a square hole, and he has succeeded. A company is organized to put his invention on the market. It is simply an oscillating head with chisel edges and projecting lips, which cut out the corners in advance of the chisel. The balance of the machine is an almost exact counterpart of the old-style boring machine. It will cut a two by four mortise in from four to five minutes—and do it with perfect accuracy—that a carpenter can not complete in less than half an hour. [Hall's Critic.]

Notice of Incorporation!

The undersigned, John Karl, John Koehner, Chas. Engelen, Adam Spielberger, Philip Antoni and C. M. Kahr have associated themselves together to become incorporated under the name and style of the German Evangelical Lutheran Emanuel Congregation of Otterheim, Lincoln county, Kentucky, and its principal place of transacting business will be Otterheim, Lincoln county, Ky.

1. The nature of the business to be transacted is to organize, establish and maintain a Christian Church of the Lutheran Congregation of those professing the work of God as it is laid down and explained in the syncretistic book of Concord, 1580, especially in the enlarged Augsburg Confession and the smaller Catechism of Luther, and a School House and Cemetery.

2. The amount of capital stock shall not be less than $500 nor more than $5,000, divided into shares of $5 each, and shall be paid in such installments as the officers of the church may direct.

3. The corporation shall commence on the 1st day of September, 1887, and terminate on the 1st day of September, 1937.

4. The affairs of this corporation shall be conducted by a minister, a secretary, a cashier, who shall be elected trustees, and two other trustees, who shall be elected, first, on the 1st Saturday in September, 1887, and thereafter on the 1st Saturday in January of each year.

5. The highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which this corporation shall at any time subject itself shall be $500.

6. The private property of the members of this corporation shall be exempt from its corporate debts.

7. This corporation shall have all the powers, rights and privileges provided for by chapter 56 of the General Statutes of Kentucky, Title, Incorporated Companies.

8. This corporation desires and intends to be recognized into organic union with the German Evangelical Lutheran Synod of the State of Iowa, and shall be governed by the resolutions and rules of discipline prescribed therein, where the same are not inconsistent with the Constitution and laws of Kentucky.
